DORMANT ROSES FOR FALL PLANTING

WE consider that the Fall is the best time in which to plant Dormant Roses, from about October 20 to November 20. We are so convinced of this that WE WILL REPLACE ANY PLANTS BOUGHT FROM US AND PLANTED DURING THE ABOVE PERIOD, FOR ALL EXCEPT THE NORTHERN STATES AND CANADA, THAT DO NOT COME SUCCESSFULLY THROUGH THE FIRST YEAR, provided they have been planted, given winter protection and proper pruning and attention in the Spring and Summer, all in accordance with the plain and simple instructions sent out by us with each shipment.

We will not sell any Dormant plants in the Spring, only those which have been "Already Started" by us in pots during the winter. These will be ready for delivery about the end of April.

The prices of the Dormant plants in the Fall are $1.00 and up, according to the variety, those of the "Already Started" plants for 1928 delivery, $1.25 and up.

All our plants are field grown, budded on hardy stock, mostly Multiflora Japonica and will flower the first Summer after planting, except the climbers which take an extra year to develop their flowering canes.

Every plant is sent out with a name label on it.

The later in the Fall the planting can be deferred, the better, so long as comparatively mild weather prevails for planting. For late planting mulch the ground with leaves, straw or other litter to prevent it from freezing before roses are received.

Fuller descriptions of the different varieties will be found in our last Spring catalogue. If you have mislaid your copy, write for another one.

Unless you mark your order "No Substitutes" we will use our best judgment in substituting equally good varieties, of the same color, for any that may be sold out.
